Significance & Objectives.

Today, multiple avenues are being opened to architects for global practice. Tremendous scope for Research and Development prevails in the sector of building materials and technical advancements. Radical technological leaps are leading to new challenges in architectural practice. It is the requisite in today's competitive world that the budding architects are fully equipped with technical knowhow and contemporary practices in architecture. Does the teaching pedagogy need to undergo a change accordingly? What should be the changes the pedagogical methods should adopt?

This Teachers training program intends:

1. To create an awareness about global architectural practices.
2. To understand the role of an architect in contemporary practices.
3. To discuss scope for R & D in material science and technical advancements.
4. To discuss pedagogical approach for preparedness to creating industry ready architects.
