Aim of the conference

- To initiate a paradigm shift in research orientation
- So as to make it indigenous, holistic, integrated, meaningful and would contribute towards the betterment of the society by its applicability.

Theme of the conference

In the present times, the whole world is undergoing a tremendous turbulence in the field of knowledge realization. The information explosion of the last couple of decades and the consumer driven spurt of technological advancement has posed more challenges than solutions, more questions than answers before humanity.

The Bhartiya perspective towards life is one step advanced than the holistic and sustainable approach being considered today. The purpose of research in present day education has to be sublimated to the level of national regeneration. It will make the research socially relevant, environment-friendly as well as technically and economically sustainable.

Naipunya (नैपुण्य): The researcher's workshop

- To facilitate applicability factor of the research to make it meaningful and socially relevant
